Personal life:

I'm a fifth-generation Douglas Countian! Raised south of Lawrence, I grew up enjoying the best of both Baldwin City and Lawrence and have always called Douglas County home. My family has owned a local business since 1981, that has been actively involved with the construction of new homes in Lawrence and surrounding areas. Each year that passes, I appreciate our incredible community more and more and feel so fortunate to have such deep roots.

Outside of real estate, I enjoy staying active and spending time outdoors. Whether it's camping, traveling, exploring new places, paddle boarding, working in the yard and garden, attending concerts, or taking nature walks with my two German Shepherds, I love making the most of our community and the outdoors. I also discovered yoga several years ago and continue to practice whenever I can—whether on a paddle board at one of our local lakes, at Lava Yoga, or in my own living room.

I would be honored to serve a second term as an LBOR Director. Our directors volunteer a tremendous amount of time to strengthen and protect the future of our profession, and I believe our members and the communities we serve are better because of their dedication.
