Personal:

Lawrence has always had my heart. While life took me from California to New York City and back again, Lawrence is where I've built my businesses, raised my family, and found my passion for real estate.

After high school, I headed to California to continue my education and experience life outside of Kansas. From there, I moved to New York City, where I began working at a prominent fabric store. Within five months, I worked my way into a management position and was eventually sent to Los Angeles to help open a new location.

Life had other plans, and I eventually found my way back to Lawrence.

Over the years, I've worn many hats. I've worked as an interior designer for Cove Development, started my own sewing business, founded a charity-based indie craft market, and helped design and curate a longtime, high-end gift store in downtown Lawrence. Each experience taught me something about running a business, building relationships, leading people, and being part of a community.

Becoming a REALTOR® felt like a natural next step. Growing up with a father in the building industry, I was familiar with the business, had the confidence to get out and meet people, and, quite simply, I LOVE houses!

Since becoming licensed in 2018, I've worked hard to build a successful real estate career, consistently ranking among the top agents in my brokerage. I've also started my own property management company, expanding my ability to serve people with different housing needs throughout Douglas County. As a single mom of two amazing kids, I've learned a thing or two about hard work, juggling responsibilities, adapting to change, and making things happen.

I've always believed that being involved means more than simply showing up. I enjoy learning, sharing ideas, helping others succeed, and giving back to the industry and community that have given me so much. I continue to invest in my professional development through education, training, and industry involvement.

Why am I running for President?

After serving five years as a Director, I would be honored to take the next step in serving our REALTOR® community as President.

I believe good leadership starts with listening. It means being approachable, willing to have conversations, open to different perspectives, and ready to do the work. I'm not afraid to speak up, ask questions, or challenge the way things have always been done when I believe there's an opportunity to make something better.

I care about our industry, the people in it, and the role we play in our community. I want our members to feel heard, supported, connected, and proud to be part of our association.

I'm a natural leader, a doer, and someone who genuinely enjoys helping people. I believe we accomplish more when we work together, and I would welcome the opportunity to lead alongside others who share that commitment.

Thank you for considering me for this position. It would be an incredible honor to serve as 1st Vice President of our Board of REALTORS®.
